

Developing Public Health Intelligence capability in the East of England

LKIS East of England

Who are we?

The East of England Local Knowledge and Intelligence Service (LKIS) sits within the Population Health Analysis Unit (PHAU) in the Office for Health Improvement and Disparities (OHID) within the Department of Health and Social Care (DHSC).

The aim of our service is to support effective local public health action through the delivery of high quality analysis, provision of expert advice and training and the facilitation of local networks for partners across the system.

Why do we need to increase capability in the use of public health intelligence?

A foundation level understanding of the use of population health data and intelligence is essential for those working in public health.

Increasingly, staff working in NHS and in social care are also recognising the importance of using population health intelligence approaches.

There is a need to ensure that the East of England workforce have the knowledge and skills needed to make data-informed decisions on population health and care.

What did we do?

LKIS provided a range of training to support analysts and non-analysts within the regional health and care economy in 2022/23, including :

- ⇒ A suite of eLearning resources on population health intelligence and population health management
- ⇒ Interactive training on core population health intelligence (foundation level)
- ⇒ Webinars and bespoke support on the use of OHID data tools and resources

96 people attended our training course from 36 organisations

The Foundation Course in Public Health Intelligence

Our training course rated as “Good” or “Excellent” by 100% of participants, with 97% stating they could apply what they learnt to their role

Intelligence operates across five days, with seven distinct modules, each module building on the last to culminate in a capstone exercise which brings the skills together to address a public health issue.

Our eLearning course accessed 8,459 times with 375 session launches

To hear about our future training opportunities scan the QR code and add your details

LKIS are:

- Associate Director: Sian.evans@dhsc.gov.uk;
- Programme Manager: Caroline.wright@dhsc.gov.uk;
- Principal Knowledge Transfer: James.harrison@dhsc.gov.uk;
- Senior Analyst: Mark.parker@dhsc.gov.uk.

