

The ADPH London KHub Digital Network Platform

About KnowledgeHub (KHub)

KHub is a private knowledge sharing platform that allows organisations to create online communities enabling us and colleagues to share information and content, generate discussion, collaborate, and act as a digital library of resources. As part of our year-end Networks Evaluation Survey, members told us they would appreciate an online community such as KHub.

ADPH London KHub Digital Network

ADPH London has now set up it's very own KHub's Digital Network - a premium version of the platform with enhanced functionality. We have made this investment to improve our ways of working with network members.

Premium features include:

- Hosting all our thematic networks under the banner of ADPH London
- No limit to the number of groups to allow for flexibility and growth of networks
- Network members can join all groups they are part of, or have an interest in, with ease
- A central repository with the capacity for an unlimited number of materials

This Digital Network collectively hosts 10 of our thematic networks as “Groups” in one virtual space.

Active KHub Groups
Children and Young People	Immunisation
Children and Young People Mental Health	London Obesity Leads
Climate and Health	Public Health Tackling Racism and Inequality Network
Health and Wellbeing of Asylum Seekers and Refugees	Public Mental Health
Health Care Public Health (Population Health)	Suicide Prevention

All network meeting notes, presentations and video recordings will be hosted on KHub following each meeting, making them readily available and avoiding email firewalls. It will also host key documents, resources, and examples of best practice from other local authorities.

Email will remain the main form of communication for urgent updates, but from now, all meeting content and cascades will be hosted exclusively on KHub.
