The Young People's Programme National Conference

1st July 2014, London

Join CAADA and partners: Barnardo's, IKWRO, Leap Confronting Conflict and the Marie Collins Foundation at our first national conference for the Young People's Programme.

What is the Young People's Programme?

The programme helps local areas in England to provide a safe and supportive response to teenagers experiencing relationship abuse and a range of interpersonal violence.

Why should I attend?

At the event we will hear directly from young people who will share their thoughts about interpersonal violence and exploitation.

We will also offer an update on the programme's progress, its achievements to date, plans for the year ahead and an excellent opportunity to network with professionals working with young people on the ground.

Keynote speakers will give you their insight into the issues affecting young people experiencing abuse.

This is a fantastic opportunity to discuss together how to achieve effective outcomes for children and young people.
